WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—The following is the result of my inquiries to-day in official quarters. Charges preferred by F. P. Blair against Major General Fremont on Sept. 26 have not reached Washington. According to regulations they are required to be transmitted through superior officers—who in this case is General Fremont himself. A copy of charges, however, has been received, to be printed in the event that Fremont himself shall neglect or decline to transmit the original document to the War Department. In response to request of Gen. Fremont for a Quartermaster for the Western Department, as Brigadier General McKinstry has taken the field, Major Robert Allen has been appointed to that position. He has the reputation of being one of the best officers of the kind now in the [illegible]

Gen. Sigel is bound to get at Gen. Price, and if he meets him, will give a good account of himself.

YREKA, Oct. 14th.—The body of Alonzo Prim, better known as "Lord Prim," was found in Klamath river on Thursday last. From the appearance of the body it is supposed to have been in the water about two months. Deceased had been insane for several months.

HENRY L. PITTOCK.

A "Painful Position."

The Advertiser thinks it a painful position for Union men to serve under Secessionists. He is right. We put a case: Supposing our neighbor should be made chaplain of Gen. Dennison's Secession army,—in which some union men might be so silly as to enlist, and supposing that the worthy chaplain in the performance of his duties, should open religious services by the following prayer, which he regards as orthodox, to wit:

"O Lord! Thou knowest that the President of the United States has inaugurated this war—that he inaugurated it and continues it for evil purposes,—to deprive the South of her just rights, with whom we sympathize—and that he has thus began the war and thus continues it for the purpose of exercising a cruel tyranny over the South!

Thou knowest all these things. We invoke thee to paralyze the national arms, to give victory to the South—so that our government shall be humbled and broken down—and that Jeff. Davis and our Southern friends may rule this nation. Amen!"*

Don't you think, Mr. Advertiser, that the position of a Union man who would be compelled to listen to such treason and falsehood and impiety, would be an unpleasant one—particularly if it should be so, that he and others of the same way of thinking, could not take the chaplain out and give him a good ducking?

We do not desire to see any of our friends placed in such a painful position as we have here presented;—not we.

*The following paragraph appeared in the Advertiser of Thursday of last week:

"We have every reason to invoke Divine interposition to stay the hand of Lincoln, paralyze his efforts, and thus put a stop to the unnatural internecine war, that he has inaugurated and carried on."

FROM THE SANDWICH ISLANDS.—We have Honolulu papers of the 19th September. The experiments in raising cotton succeed well, but complaint is made that a poor variety of seed is used. The planters expecting better by an English ship. The sugar ranches are making large crops. The yield is much greater than in Louisiana. Land which has been in cultivation 20 years makes superior cane. The French writer, Guleathe Capt. De Cornuliere Lucluere, had arrived at Honolulu. He with other officers made official calls upon the King, the commissioners of France and the United States. The King has issued a proclamation of neutrality in the contest in the States, and says that no privateers will be permitted to come into the ports of his kingdom, unless forced by stress of weather.

PEACE HYPOCRITES.—The Louisville Democrat says that the Peace Party in Kentucky are made up of the most violent Secessionists and Disunionists. Their white rosettes are pinned up in bosoms reeking with treason. The whole object of their cry of peace is war. —They want peace only when Jeff. Davis can be placed at the head of the Government.

The "Peace Party."

[illegible] things [illegible] of the [illegible] the [illegible] of the [illegible] States by the [illegible] supporters of [illegible] Breckinridge [illegible] frankly say that it [illegible] effecting peace [illegible] the North [illegible] National Convention [illegible]

The Memphis Appeal of the 14th Sept., says that [illegible] proposed Southern friends in the North to get up a party based on the call of a National Convention, and peace to [illegible] may [illegible] well as a party scheme or platform, where it is understood that everything is patched up theoretically for mere effect, but further than this it is a delusion and a snare. We fear that if the triumph of the peace party in the North depends upon the contingency expressed in this plank, it may as well throw up the sponge at once and meekly confess defeat without a struggle. There will be a better prospect of peace to its ashes than its efforts.

It is hard that the disunionists or "peace men," as they call themselves, should be so cavalierly treated by their Southern friends; but they must recollect that their Southern task masters have always been very exacting. The disunionists want the assistance of their friends in the loyal States, but they will be satisfied with their efforts to embarrass the Government, and caution them not to hope for peace by any such movement as a National Convention.

There is but one way left to this Nation to secure honorable peace, and that is by successful war. We must fight for it—we must make sacrifices for it of property and life. Peace, worthy to be called a peace, under the circumstances of the Nation, must be conquered on the field of battle.

We are aware that the rebels had the advantage in their early organization. We are aware that they will use all their power to make this early organization effective. But we know that there are other facts to be considered in this struggle. The spirit of the Union men will rise as dangers increase. Reported defeats only stimulate us to renewed energy. We have the money and the men, if this conquest is prolonged, and these will conquer.

Well Spoken.

There are secessionists—Jeff Davis men in the North, as there are in Oregon,—who are constantly denouncing the President as violating the Constitution in raising means to drive back the surges of rebellion which threatened the overthrow of the government. These were the original supporters of Breckenridge in the Northern States. The Chicago Post—the organ of Mr. Douglas in his life time—says "that these men for the last three years have been pandering to the mean and wicked designs of the party now in rebellion in the South." The same paper goes on to say that "if Lincoln had not done as he did there would have been no government at this time, unless Mr. Lincoln, flying before the rebel hosts, seeking for a Congress to pass an act allowing him to enroll a company of militia, might be called a government." These men who charge against Mr. Lincoln unconstitutional acts, would have rejoiced at this state of things. They would have gloried in the destruction of the Union and the establishment of a Southern Government to control the disintegrated States of the North. Lincoln has prevented these results.

The Chicago Post continues: "But these acts are no longer unconstitutional. Congress has legalized them, and they are now as constitutional as if they had been originally authorized by Congress." No honest man can doubt these facts.

The Post closes its article with these pungent truths:

"This war is one for the preservation of the constitution. So far the war has been conducted for that purpose, and with that single object. When the Government shall prove false to its trust, and shall direct the war for purposes foreign to its original design, then, but not till then, will the Democracy cry 'stop thief!' When that time comes, no voice from petty semi-secession journals will [illegible] both army and Government. [illegible] troops themselves will [illegible] and their arms. No power in the land will compel them to prostitute the flag of their country for such unjustifiable purposes. Until that time comes—and we hope it is far distant—the Democracy will render cheerful and patriotic support to the flag of their country." In the history of the past they have been loyal, and they are unable to be [illegible] than they are [illegible] in any rebellion.

NO REBEL REPORTS.—The rebels have made no detailed report of the battle of Bull's Run. With all their boasting, it seems to be certain that they suffered greater loss in that battle than were supposed by the Federal papers.

[illegible] [illegible] [illegible] G. B. White [illegible] O. B. [illegible] Wm. McNamee, Drs. [illegible] Gilbert [illegible] and L. M. Starr [illegible] [illegible] Mitchell [illegible]

[illegible] [illegible] graded.

The witnesses were [illegible]. They were then [illegible] without [illegible] the case.

Witnesses for the prosecution—Messrs. Campbell, Isaac Wagner, Wm. L. W[illegible], Keally, S. N. Arrigoni, B. F. [illegible], Drs. Bryant, Elwert, Wilson and Wilson were called. These gentlemen [illegible] at the post-mortem examination. The facts presented by them were [illegible] published on Monday.

G. B. White was called: was at the Pioneer House at the time of the [illegible]; did not know who shot Capt. Staples; saw him about three minutes afterwards; was in the first story; did not know where Patterson was [illegible] minutes before; he was at the head of the second flight of stairs, [illegible] a navy revolver in his hand [illegible] saw some one close to them in the [illegible] story; Mr. Taylor; did not see Patterson fire the pistol; first saw Patterson at the head [illegible] flight of stairs [illegible] and [illegible] inquired what it was. He replied that there was a crowd in pursuit of him, and he was going to defend himself. I urged him not to [illegible] murder in the house, and asked him to go to some other portion of the house and I would secrete him;—he replied, let me go where I will the crowd will follow; he said he would stand his ground where he was, and would shoot the first man who would come up stairs, and all I could do for him was to go down stairs and prevent the crowd from coming up; went down stairs half way, met the crowd, caught the foremost one and tried him down; said to him he must not go up stairs—he replied, he is there; we are bound to have him. He seemed determined to go up. It was Capt. Staples; told him that Patterson said he would shoot the first man that came up; that it was impossible to take Patterson without some one or two were killed. Staples replied, if he was killed Patterson would be hung in five minutes. The crowd on the stairs became more excited, and witness was pushed aside, and he went to the office. He immediately heard discharge of fire arms; thirteen shots were fired; the wound was received on the 2d floor; thinks that Staples received the fourth shot. The crowd were in the lower story when witness talked with Patterson about concealing him. He had the pistol then cocked in his hand; saw a person further in the hall, did not see that he had a pistol.

The affair occurred between one and two o'clock. Could not see who composed the crowd; Capt. Staples was most in advance; French, and Andrews of the Julia, and Capt. Hustler tried to keep Staples back.

The Court took a recess.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

O. B. Brown called.—He was at the Pioneer when Capt. Staples was shot. The first he saw of the affair was in the Bank Exchange. Saw prisoner and Capt. Dodge talking—saw him strike Dodge with a cane; he then ran to the counter, seized glasses and decanters and threw them against the lattice work and among the crowd; the prisoner ran to the back door—the last he saw of him. All went down to the steamer—may have stayed an hour and a half. Capt. Hustler wanted Capt. Staples to go up town and take another drink and play another tune or two. Witness got in a few minutes ahead of them; saw Capt. Dodge and the prisoner—Dodge by himself. The Captain had some grudge apparently against Andrews and wanted him to go out. Andrews said he wouldn't, and the crowd came in; when Staples told the prisoner not to draw his pistol, and told Dodge to pull his coat off and have a fair fight; prisoner said that was not his way of fighting, and started up stairs, when he fired among the crowd from the first flight of stairs; supposed there must have been ten or twelve persons present then. He went to the head of the stairs. Staples hallooed, "Get me a pistol and a candle and I will arrest him." Did not hear Patterson say anything. There was a [illegible] or two [illegible] a crowd was going up to arrest him. De Witt was there—handed me the light. Staples was ahead. He told me, I am shot—take the pistol and arrest the fellow. I left and went after the Doctor; saw no pistol in the crowd before Patterson had shot Staples, but the pistol from [illegible] there.

Cross-examined.—Heard Patterson say he was a Southerner, and stood up for Southern rights. Heard him grumble about the patriotic songs sung; think Dodge was with the crowd when they went down to the steamer; [illegible] that Andrews was [illegible] with Patterson. Did [illegible] Met Mr. Arrigoni [illegible] the stairs; [illegible] say something to Capt. Staples; think I tried to stop him. Dodge had hold of Arrigoni; wanted Patterson arrested; did not hear any one say [illegible] Patterson until after he shot Staples. Went after the Doctor [illegible]

D. [illegible] Witt called.—After twelve endeavored to get Capt. Dodge to go home [illegible] Patterson; Dodge got away from him. Patterson went into the Pioneer. Patterson was sitting, Dodge said he had been insulted by him, and would fight him at arms length. Patterson said that was not his way of fighting. I went out and returned. There had [illegible] proclaimed peace; sent for [illegible] five men were shot [illegible] Staples say, "I'm shot" [illegible] had proclaimed peace and heard that Capt. Staples had been shot. (Cross [illegible] nothing important.)

[illegible] Sayers.—Saw prisoner strike Dodge with a cane at the Bank Exchange [illegible] tumblers. Heard the [illegible] armed to the teeth [illegible] D. Witt. Patterson [illegible]

[illegible] Saw Capt. Staples lying [illegible] and say, "I've [illegible] a fair fight." [illegible] that way. [illegible] Capt. Staples at the time he was shot. He was not advancing, but was at the foot of the second flight of stairs. When DeWitt proclaimed peace Staples stopped.

French.—Was close by Capt. Staples when shot. Did not know who shot him. Heard Staples say, give me a pistol and I will arrest the prisoner.

J. S. [illegible]—Was in his room at the Pioneer on the [illegible] floor. Saw nothing. Heard firing. Some person advised another to get away but his reply was as understood, that he did not wish to run away. Something was said about two persons having been killed two or three seconds after a shot was fired.

Cross-examined.—The expression referred to about this, that he had killed enough of them and did not wish to run away.

Wm. McNamee.—His evidence furnished nothing new, but substantiated that of others as far as it went.

Mr. Gilbert was not present at the affair. Mr. L. M. Starr went for his brother to arrest Patterson.

Mr. Brown arrested prisoner. He was on the back porch in the privy. He gave Mr. Starr a pistol.

Cross Examined.—What did the prisoner say when he was arrested? Objected to. The Court sustained the objection. Several persons cried out to hang him. Capt. Dodge cried out to hang him, that he had killed one or two persons before; shoved me away, and said I had no authority there, and said he would have him. I left the prisoner when Mr. Starr came for the purpose of getting Capt. Dodge away. No other attempt was made to rescue except by Capt. Dodge.

The evidence for the prosecution has closed. That for the defence we shall publish on Monday. The court adjourned last evening until 10 o'clock this morning, after the arguments of counsel.

Universalism.—A. C. Edmunds will preach in Court House to-morrow morning and evening. Subject—Life and Death.

The Fashionable Gentleman.—Sir Philip Sydney is known to all readers of history as the "first English gentleman" who flourished in the reign of Queen Elizabeth, and who was so tidy in dress and gallant in manner that he almost captivated the Queen, who thought of her affections to prompt her to call him "the Jewels." Now we cannot vouch for all we might hear, but we do know that neatness of dress and refinement of character has a very winning influence over all, especially among the Ladies, and if any one desires to imitate Sir Philip let him step into the ONE PRICE Store and secure himself a fashionable suit of those latest style of last Summer. Among the many articles now in store are the Paris Frocks, the London Coats, the New York [illegible], the Broadway Suits, the French Velvet Vests, the [illegible] Hats and the New Style Scarfs. All the articles were purchased [illegible] and will be sold at small advance; to be seen at HARKER'S, opposite Commercial Wharf.

Manufactures in Oregon.—We are for these all the time. Every article manufactured in Oregon, saves money to Oregon. Every broom made here; every boot and shoe made here; every plow made here; every basket and tub made here; every yard of woolen or other cloth made here; and so we might go on almost ad infinitum—all these manufactures save money for Oregon. This morning a box of soap was placed on our table with these marks—"A. Merchant & Co., Chemical Olive Soap, Portland, Oregon." The article appears to be a good one. We like the present, but we are more pleased with the profits which will accrue to Oregon and the owners from this establishment. We trust our merchants who purchase this variety of soap to retail, and our citizens who purchase soap by the box, will patronize this establishment. All our interests require this to be done; and if the article sustains its present excellence, that they will continue to patronize it. Shame that Oregon people should be tributary to San Francisco for an article which can be made here, and of such absolute necessity as common soap. The manufactory, at present, is in the North part of the city.

Produce.—Produce is rapidly coming in. Our streets are occasionally filled with wagons. Marketing is sold low, at wholesale, from the wagons—too low to pay the farmer; but by the time the consumers get hold of it, prices are found to be high enough.

Arrival of Julia.—Tracy & Co. brought down $20,000 in gold dust, last night, per steamer Julia. There was also a large amount in private hands. The steamer Okanagan was considerably injured by striking a rock at the rapids in John Day's river. Steamer Col. Wright went to her assistance and took passengers and freight safe to Walla Walla. The Cortez ran on Swan Island Bar last night. A lighter will be taken down from the city, and it is believed she will be got off to-morrow.
